THE PRESIDENT'S MESSAGE

Barbara M. Brown
President, Wavefront Board of Directors

Wavefront Centre for Communication Accessibility is in transition. We've constructed our new, award-winning head office. Our CEO, Christopher T. Sutton, is building his management team. New equipment, new systems and new methodologies are being implemented, or planned to be this year. Greater stability, and deeper appreciation for the work done by our staff are developing, as new job descriptions and departmental goals are established.

Right now, we are all about change and the Board is also moving in new directions. Watson recently presented the results of their review of Wavefront Centre's governance structure and processes. This report will support the Board's decision making as we move forward.

COVID-19 has impacted businesses in so many ways and Wavefront Centre is no exception. Our province has given us effective and safe ways of operation, based on valid scientific principles. Wavefront Centre's commitment, as an essential service provider, to upholding these principles has meant fewer, but longer client visits while keeping our employees safe.

Christopher has developed new revenue-generating programs that have mitigated some of our financial losses, but Wavefront Centre continues to depend on the financial support of its members and donors. Your financial support makes a difference and is deeply appreciated. I invite you to make a donation at this time of need.

Thank you, and warmest wishes for health and happiness as we approach a gradual return to our normal and happy routines!

A MESSAGE FROM OUR CEO

Christopher T. Sutton
Chief Executive Officer

Welcome to a new edition of The WAVE newsletter! I am so pleased that this issue highlights many of our accomplishments from 2021 in serving the diverse needs of our clients. Throughout this edition you will read how we expanded our impact, created new partnerships, and gained more exposure on the national stage. We accomplished this and much more as we navigated the uncertainties of the impact of the global pandemic with resilience and persistence.

2021 continued to be a year of transformation at Wavefront Centre. We continued to make investments to ensure that our clients were able to access our various programs and services that seek to eliminate communication barriers. We continued to maintain our operations at our new head office on Quebec Street and our satellite offices in Fairview and Tri-Cities.

We bundled our programs and services, to ensure that we provided operational support to our teams and furthered our collaboration. Our Community Outreach Services consists of the Seniors' Outreach programs, our Digitization program, Therapeutic Activation Program for Older Adults and Seniors (TAPS) for DeafBlind persons, and Employment Services. Accessible Communication Services consists of American Sign Language (ASL) Interpreting, Translation, Plain Language, Captioning and Audio Description Services. As we move forward, we continue to explore how we can better serve our clients while making the environment barrier-free and our communities more accessible.

We also created a new management structure and hired Dr. Ruth Warick as our Director, Programs + Services, who oversees our Accessible Communication Services, Community Outreach Services and Community Research Programs, and Hugh McCormack as our Director, Clinical Operations + Social Enterprise. He oversees our Audiology, Communication Devices Programs and business development activities.

And while the management team and staff have been working on improving efficiencies in our operations and program delivery, the board, too, undertook a review to better understand how it operates and how it can best support Wavefront Centre as we continue to grow.

I would like to take the opportunity to thank all our loyal supporters, hard-working staff, our committed board members, and you, our membership, for your continued support. We look forward to our continued success with your support in 2022 and beyond!

STORIES FROM OUR COMMUNITY

I am so incredibly grateful for the friendly, expert advice, care and technical solution for my hearing loss that Wavefront Centre provided to me. My life is much fuller for the ability Wavefront Centre provided me to engage with people again.”

- Valerie Harrison, who benefited from the Lend an Ear program at Wavefront Centre

Thanks to the generous supporters of Wavefront Centre, clients like Valerie were able to enjoy the holiday season with the comfort of hearing technology she received from our Lend an Ear Program, a program that provides low-income individuals with hearing aids from Wavefront Centre.

Many of us have been home alone for more than a year with hardly any visitors. A visit from a staff member and a volunteer from Wavefront Centre with a care package has made my day. Thank you.”

- Elsie Robert, client of Wavefront Centre's Seniors Outreach Program who celebrated her 100th birthday this past September

Wavefront Centre's Better at Home Program reduces social isolation by matching seniors with a peer or staff support person. Every dollar donated helps us support clients like Elsie in our communities.

Thank you for all the generous support to Wavefront Centre's programs and services.

Together, we are building a community which enables everyone to connect and communicate with each other without communication barriers.

Make a gift today to support us in breaking down communication barriers and promoting inclusive communities for all.

Make a difference today.

COMMUNITY OUTREACH

An Accessible Visor Card - a milestone initiative

We all benefit from a society and an economy that's free from barriers to inclusion. During the International Week of the Deaf in September 2021, Wavefront Centre collaborated with the Vancouver Police Department to produce an accessible visor card, to reduce the communication barriers between Vancouver police officers and people who are Deaf, DeafBlind and Hard of Hearing.

One side of the visor card is for people who are Deaf, DeafBlind, and Hard of Hearing to share communication tips easily and indicate assistance needed. The other side features texts and icons that help traffic officers indicate their intentions in the stop. This tool is a milestone for our local communities to remove barriers and to improve accessibility and inclusion.

Don't forget to get a copy of the visor card from any of Wavefront Centre's three locations!

Disability Community Host National Election Debate on Disability Issues

Canadians with disabilities are far too often an afterthought of politicians and government. During the last federal election, no question was asked during the leaders' debates about persons with disabilities or about creating a more accessible Canada.

A coalition of over 25 disability organizations called on the major political parties to attend a national election debate on disability issues. Organized by the Pan-Canadian Disability Coalition on September 7, 2021, the debate gave political leaders the opportunity to share their vision and platform for the nearly 6.2 million Canadians with disabilities.

The engagement with the parties was historic for our community and this conversation will enable us to better engage with political parties across Canada! As the largest minority in Canada at 22%, we have the potential to make a great impact and this event was another channel that showcased our power.

Accessibility Gaining Momentum

Two recent developments bode well for the advancement of accessibility for people with disabilities in the City of Vancouver and the Province of British Columbia.

One of the developments is the creation of an Accessibility Strategy by the City of Vancouver with a Phase One of the Strategy expected to go before City Council this spring. This phase focuses on a commitment to the full participation of persons with disabilities by establishing and maintaining inclusive services as noted on the City's website.

As part of the groundwork for the Strategy, a dialogue session was organized by the City of Vancouver with the assistance of Wavefront Centre for Communication Accessibility, Community Outreach Services Department.

Wavefront Centre was pleased to collaborate with the City to ensure that the voices of persons who are Deaf, DeafBlind, and Hard of Hearing were considered in the drafting of the Accessibility Strategy, stated Ruth Warick, Director, Programs + Services.

In other developments concerning accessibility, the Province of British Columbia passed Bill 6 – 2021: Accessible British Columbia Act. Christopher T. Sutton, CEO of Wavefront Centre, was on the Advisory Committee concerning the new legislation. He noted:

"We are pleased to see the various standards that have been proposed for development, relating to delivery of services, employment, information and communication, and health, which will make a difference in the lives of all people in British Columbia and will break down barriers. Wavefront Centre is also thrilled that the government joins a small number of other jurisdictions around the world in recognizing Sign Language as the language of people who are culturally Deaf."

NEW REPORT UNCOVERS THE IMPACTS OF COVID-19 ON COMMUNICATION ACCESSIBILITY FOR ADULTS WITH HEARING LOSS

In 2021, the Canadian Hard of Hearing Association (CHHA), University of British Columbia (UBC), and Wavefront Centre for Communication Accessibility worked together to collect information from Canadians with hearing loss and deafness about how the pandemic has impacted the daily lives.

We received insights from close to 700 individuals who noted the demand for universal captioning, impacts of masks on communication, and the ability to receive accessible information from the government and media outlets on COVID-19. In May, 2021, we hosted a webinar where the principal investigators presented the preliminary findings from their work. Watch the webinar recording here.

TIPS FOR HEALTHCARE COMMUNICATION ACCESS

The pandemic has exacerbated communication challenges for many persons and especially for those who have a hearing loss. The use of covered face masks and social distancing have added additional constraints on interactions with healthcare professionals in hospitals and medical offices.

To provide practical tips and information about resources for better communication outcomes in the healthcare sector, the Canadian Hard of Hearing Association, British Columbia Chapter, in partnership with Wavefront Centre for Communication Accessibility, produced two new publications.

One publication focuses on the patient with hearing loss, entitled Hearing Access Health Guide for People with Hearing Loss. The second publication focuses on doctors and other healthcare professionals and is entitled Making Health Care Accessible for People with Hearing Loss.

The publications may be downloaded from the CHHA-BC website of <https://chha-bc.org/hearing-access-health-kit>

Funding support for the project was provided by the Government of Canada Emergency Community Support Fund and the Canadian Hard of Hearing Association Foundation.

ADVANCE SCREENING OF MARVEL'S SUPERHERO MOVIE WITH OPEN CAPTIONS

What was even more exciting than the ETERNALS? The ETERNALS with subtitles in the cinema!

At the end of November last year, Wavefront Centre and our communities were invited to an advanced open caption screening of Marvel Studios' new superhero movie, ETERNALS.

Captioning, open or closed, is an important feature which can improve the communication accessibility for everyone. Marvel made an extra step with subtitles embedded in the movie for the screening, providing an even more fluent experience exclusively for our community members.

DEAFBLIND AWARENESS WEEK 2021

Deafblindness is a disability where there is a combination of hearing loss and vision loss, ranging from mild to severe. Currently, there are very limited services set up in British Columbia that can support the unique communication and accessibility needs of DeafBlind adults and seniors.

Wavefront Centre's Therapeutic Activation Program for Older Adults and Seniors (TAPS) aims to empower DeafBlind seniors and older adults through services that support connection, independence and access in their communities.

To recognize the DeafBlind Awareness Month in June 2021, Blue Light events took place all over Canada and some locations in B.C. Staff at Wavefront Centre also celebrated the event with community members and captured some great Blue Light initiatives around the city of Vancouver.

CONNECTING WITH OUR SENIORS

Wavefront Centre hosted an in-person event during the National Seniors' Day celebrations last October. The seniors came dressed in keeping with the event themed Red Hat & Purple Tie! In their pretty red hats and beautiful purple outfits, everyone joined-in the various activities.

As the seniors bid farewell to a long-awaited event, they expressed their gratitude to Wavefront Centre's Better at Home staff for organizing a fun-filled event and allowing them to mingle and meet up with friends after a challenging year.

"What a treat...I will remember this event for a long time," said one of the seniors.

DISABILITY EMPLOYMENT AWARENESS MONTH 2021

Deaf, DeafBlind and Hard of Hearing individuals continue to face daily challenges and contend with issues of exclusion in employment, education and social settings due to communication barriers. Wavefront Centre provides employment counselling services to support the well-being of Deaf, DeafBlind and Hard of Hearing British Columbians.

To celebrate National Disability Employment Awareness Month (DEAM) last October, our Community Outreach Services team hosted a webinar which provided an overview of how our Employment Services help break down communication barriers and shared success stories from clients and employers.

DEAM is an annual awareness campaign that takes place each October. As persons with disabilities face barriers to employment, DEAM provides an opportunity to recognize and celebrate people with disabilities in the workforce and many different inclusive employers.
